THE BULLETIN:

EDWARD H. BRITTON.

From Vicksburg.

Vicksbure, Jan. 2, Skirmishing continued all day yesterday, no general engagement is expected until the arrival of McClernand and with the balance of the Yankee army. We are confident of our ability to hold Vicksburg against any force which the Yankees may bring. Late this morning our forces advanced against the enemy who were erecting batteries on the lake, causing them to evacuate the place, leaving fifty stand of arms, nine prisoners and all the implements for cutting fortifications.

Our forces now occupy the whole country bordering on the lake, the enemy having returned to his transports and gone down the Yazoo. The latest from the enemy is that they have left Chickasaw bayou and are reported as going on their transports to Sneider's Blun, on the Yazoo, where it is supposed they will make an attempt to storm our works. Our forces are well advised of their movements, RICHMOND, Jan. 5. The Emancipation Proclamation of Lincoln which was to have been issued on the lst instant would not include that part of Virginia presumed to be leval, nor the city of New Orleans, in its operations.

The Iron Clads at Fortress Monroe are said to be on the move. The Passaic, Monitor, Montank and Galena, left there on Tuesday last for some point not stated. Northern papers report that the "290" has been seen since she captured the Ariel cruising again in the track of the California steamers.

There were three steamers of the line out and it is feared Capt. Semmes is cruising around to wait for them. There was, consequently great excitement in Commercial circles of the North.

The news of the battle of Murfreesboro had not been received in the North up to the 1st inst. The papers contain nothing later than a dispatch from Murfreesboro via Cincinnati, Dec. 30, in which it is said the Yankee army made a general advance that day and pushed the rebels back seven miles. $100 REWARD!

Runaway from the subscriber on the 29th of November, 1862, my negro boy JOE.— Said boy is about twenty-one years of age, very black complexion, five feet six inches high, weighs about 130 pounds, and slender built. He carried off with him one suit of dark clothes, two pair brown pants and one pair of gray pants. Said boy has a scar over his eye and something like a wart about the largeness of a grain of wheat, large teeth and thick lips. No other marks recollected. I have reason to be-lieve the boy left in company with a white man, who is endeavoring to carry him out of the country. I will pay the above reward for his delivery to me in Alamance county, N. Speech of President Bavis to the Legislature of Mississippi, Dece

At noon, the hour appointed for the speech of the President, the Representative Hall was crowded to overflowingnot a space lage enough to stand upon was left unfilled. The ladies occupied nearly all the seats, leaving the men all standing. The gallery, tee, was literally thronged, and many hundreds, perhaps, had to turn back disappointed, so great was the eagerness of our people to hear the President. The President spoke about one hour and a half, and during all that time the drop of a pin might have been heard in any part of the auditory, except when the welkin was made to ring with the loud and enthusiastic plaudits of his listners.

The President spoke of his love for the old Union. He alluded to it, however, as a matter of regret, that the best affections of his heart should have been bestowed upon an object so unworthy-that he should have loved so long a Government that was rotten to its very core.

He had predicted from the beginning fierce war, though it had assumed more gigantic proportions than he had calculated upon. He had predicted war, not besame our right to secede was an undoubted one, and clearly defined in the spirit of that declaration which rests the right to govern upon the consent of the governed. but the wickedness of the North would entail war upon the country. The present war waged against the rights of a free peoleveloned; and so far from re-uniting with such a people—a people whose decendants Cromwell had gathered from the bogs and dens of Ireland and Scotland-a people whose intolerance produced discord and trouble wherever they went-who persecuted Catholics, Episcopalians, and every other sect that did not subscribe to their bigoted and contracted notions-who hung witches, and did a thousand other thing to make them forever infamous-the President was emphatic in his declaration that under no cirstances would be consent to re-arrived here he thought the enemy were pressing down upon us from the Northern borders of our State, but when he went to Grenada he there learned that nothing could be seen of them but their backs .-They were going back, perhaps with the intention of reinforcing the heavy column that was now being thrown down the Mississippi River. The real point of at tack was at Vicksburg and Port Hudson; and to all who desired to lend a helping hand the country in her present exigency he would say, "Go to Port Hudson and Vicksburg without delay ! "

THE REAL DANGER, The President remarked that when h

The President paid a deserved tribute to Vicksburg. That noble little city had withstood the shock of the combined fleets of the enemy, after the great cities of New Orleans and Memphis has succombed to their supposed invincibility. The heroic women of Vicksburg had cried out, "give the enemy the soil if it cannot be defended, but let him have nothing else." The Governor left his chair and repaired to the scene of danger, and refused to listen to any advice except of defiance to the concentrated power of the enemy.

We are better prepared at Vicksburg now than then. Our defences are greatly improved and strengthened. Our arma petter armies, and that gallant soldier (Gen. Johnston) is pouring in reinforce ments. He comes to Mississippi to protect and save her. (Immense applause.)

THE OBJECTS OF THE ENEMY.

There are two grand objects of the thus and thus cut our Confederacy in too; and secondly, to seize the Confede Capitel, and hold it up to loreign nation that the Confederacy does not exist.

The President dwelt at some length up nemy's designs upon this valley; he con sidered its delence a necessity, not only to the people here, but to the Contederace Vicksburg and Port Hudson points that must be defended, and every effort must be strained for the purpose. Vicksburg, he said, would stand, and Port Hudson would stand, if the people were true to themselves. This done, the Northwest would grow restive and cease to sur port a war ruinous to them and beneficial only to New England contractors. From the Northwest he looks for the first gles here, believing him eminently suited to this command, had sustained in a signal manner the high character he had given him. He also spoke of Brigadier General

James Brooks made a speech in New Tork city, on Tuesday evening last, at a meeting, at which resolutions were adop-ted unanimously requesting New Jersey, on account of her revolutionary history and past associations to invite all States to meet in Convention at Louisville in February. They also call upon New Jersey to ask permission of the President to allow New Jersey to send delegates to the States in rebellion and invite their representation in this Convention; and, in the event the States in rebellion agree to be represented they further ask Lincoln to proclaim an armistice, by land and by sea

Mr. Brooks was enthusiastically cheere during the delivery of his speech. Burneide was in Washington on the 31st and testified in the Porter court martial

Commencing with the first of January the Yankee troops will be paid off at the rate of $500,000 per day,

A letter from Burnside's neadquarters, dated the 30th ult., says, "We will never attempt to cross again in front of Fredericksburg so long as there is a rebel battery in position to dispute our passage," It characterizes Gen. Lee's movements as a mystery, and also says that the pontoons are again on the move; and thinks it quite eignificant.

raid on hand which is to wipe out some of Gen. Stuart's achievements. Will send papers by first mail.
